

SANDRA GOLDMEER

Susan G. Komen Upstate NY

Sandra Goldmeer is the Development and Community Engagement Specialist for Susan G. Komen Upstate NY, working out of the Northeastern NY Office. In addition to overseeing the committees dedicated to putting on signature events, she also goes into the community and not only educates about breast health but supports advocacy efforts to make sure that the government ensures access to breast health care for all. But mostly, I'm a relationship builder. She works to develop meaningful engagements with individuals and companies that want to engage with Komen's mission through philanthropy and volunteerism. This also involves meeting with Survivors and families and honoring their fight.

Sandra holds Masters degrees in Jewish Education and Educational Management. She came to this role after 25 years mostly working in the Jewish non-profit world, primarily focusing on youth leadership development and engagement, as well as education.

Sandra is a 1990 UAlbany Graduate who came back to the community in 2001 and presently lives in Latham with her husband of 23 years and three sons aged 13, 18 and 21. In her spare time, she enjoys volunteering with other organizations, playing Mah Jongg and Scuba Diving.
